On Board Midwest Supporter Information

On Board Midwest has support from cities, counties, businesses, organizations, and individuals throughout the region. This project is about more than creating new passenger rail service. High-speed rail to Chicago would also enable Amtrak to expand its operations in the area and increase freight service for businesses in the region. This project is an investment in our regional economy and the benefits will extend far beyond the actual route. On Board Midwest is a growing coalition that is bringing government, business, and the community together to show our support for a critically important project.

Cities Counties along the route have created a partnership via joint-powers agreements to support the expansion of transit in our region.
